THE NATURE OF ADVENTURE TRAVEL

We feel that it's worth pointing out that while we will always strive to stick as close to the stated itinerary as possible, it may be necessary from time to time to make changes to our itineraries or services (due to weather, political and religious influences etc.) and this can happen with little or no notice. This unpredictability can be one of the most exciting aspects of adventure travel and for many of our clients often leads to unexpected highlights as the tour-leader necessarily adapts the tour to the changing conditions.

However we are aware that this lack of assuredness may not suit everyone. Adventure travel can be infectious and once you've caught the bug, it is likely to never leave you, it is experiencing the moment with no expectations.
